

Kesha Tanabe is a U.S. Bankruptcy Judge for the District of Minnesota. She is a graduate of the University of St. Thomas, the London School of Economics, and the Benjamin Cardozo School of Law at Yeshiva University. She has also studied at Harvard Business School and the Central European University.

She began her legal career working for the Attorney General and Solicitor General in New York. Before her judicial appointment, Judge Tanabe was an attorney in private practice in Minneapolis. She is a board-certified Business Bankruptcy Specialist, she was a Subchapter V Bankruptcy Trustee in Region 12, and she taught Bankruptcy at the University of St. Thomas School of Law.

She enjoys mentoring law students and planning legal educational events. She was appointed by Chief Justice Roberts to the advisory board for the Federal Judicial Center. She is also a member of an advisory board for the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts.